Lesson One

Parts of speech: nouns

We use words when we speak or write a language. In English grammar we study the use of English words. We see how we change the words and how we arrange them to make sentences that other people understand.

We say that English words are of eight kinds. If we want to decide which kind a word is, we ask ourselves: 'What work does this word do in the sentence?' The answer tells us which 'box' the word comes from. These eight 'boxes' are the eight parts of speech.

Let's look at the words from the biggest box: nouns. What work does a noun do in a sentence? It is a word that we use to name a person (man, woman, John), or people (men, boys, Indians), or an animal (horse, dog), or a thing (house, town), or an idea (peace, size etc.).

A noun is a word that names anything.

Exercises

A Write down words that name

six people (Example: teacher)

six animals (Example: horse)

six things (Example: table)

You have written down eighteen words. What part of speech are your eighteen words?

F Pick out all the nouns in this story. There are 15 different nouns in it.

To cure a headache

A man went into a chemist's shop and said, 'I want something for a very bad headache.'

The chemist took a bottle from a shelf, held it under the man's nose and opened it. The smell was so strong that tears came into the man's eyes and ran down his cheeks.

'What did you do that for?' he said angrily, as soon as he could get back his breath.

'But that medicine has cured your headache, hasn't it?' said the chemist.

'You fool,' said the man. 'It's my wife that has the headache, not me!'

Lesson Two

Nouns: singular and plural

Look at these pictures.

Here there is only 1 boy, 1 girl, 1 dog.

In the next picture you can see more than one boy, more than one girl, and more than one dog. In fact there are three boys, four girls, and two dogs.

We know the words boy, girl, dog are nouns. Notice the little change in a noun when we mean 'more than one':

Singular	Plural
boy	boys
girl	girls
dog	dogs

What is the difference? Nouns that mean 'only one' are singular. Nouns that mean 'more than one' are plural.

With most of the nouns in English we make the plural by adding s to the singular.

Exercises

A Fill the space with the plural noun.

Example: One boy. Three ____.

Answer: Three boys.

- 1 A horse. Two ____.
- 2 One dog. Three ____.
- 3 A car. Some ____.
- 4 A big tree. Some big ____.
- 5 One day. Seven ____.
- 6 A shop. Some ____.
- 7 The chemist. All the ____.
- 8 A bottle. Several ____.
- 9 An eye. Two ____.
- 10 One nose. A lot of ____.

B Fill the space with the singular form of the noun.

Example: Two boys. One ____.

Answer: One boy.

- 1 Some houses. A ____.
- 2 Some ideas. An ____.
- 3 Nasty smells. A nasty ____.
- 4 A lot of fools. One ____.
- 5 Ten nouns. A ____.
- 6 Ten spaces. One ____.
- 7 Three animals. An ____.
- 8 Two names. A ____.
- 9 Things. A ____.
- 10 Five teachers. Only one ____.

C How do we generally make English singular nouns into plural nouns?

D Make two columns, singular and plural.

Singular	Plural
hen	chickens

Now write in the singular column, all the nouns in these sentences that mean 'only one', and write in the plural column the nouns that mean 'more than one'. We have filled in number 1 for you.

- 9 In the zoo I saw ____ and ____.
- 10 The ____ are singing in the ____.

Lesson Three

Nouns: irregular plurals

For the plural of most nouns we add s to the singular. But there are some that make their plural differently.

1 Nouns that end in a 'hissing' sound (-sh, -ch, -x, -z) make their plurals by adding -es.

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
brush	brushes	inch	inches
box	boxes	fox	foxes
bus	buses	watch	watches
boss	bosses	church	churches

2 Some nouns that end in -o form their plurals by adding -es.

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
potato	potatoes	cargo	cargoes
hero	heroes	mosquito	mosquitoes

3 Nouns that end in -f or -fe generally change the ending to -ves for the plural.

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
leaf	leaves	wife	wives
half	halves	knife	knives
wolf	wolves	thief	thieves

4 Some nouns that end in -y change the -y into -ies for the plural. (Not nouns that end -ay, -ey, -oy. They add -s: trays, donkeys, boys.)

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
baby	babies	army	armies
lady	ladies	city	cities
fly	flies	body	bodies

5 A few nouns don't follow any of these rules. Here are the commonest of them.

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
man	men	tooth	teeth
woman	women	goose	geese
child	children	mouse	mice
foot	feet	sheep	sheep
ox	oxen	deer	deer

Exercises

A Write the plural forms of these nouns.

- box, hero, potato, church, brush, fox, inch.
- half, knife, leaf, baby, loaf, lady, donkey, fly, wolf, day, thief, army.
- woman, child, tooth, man, deer, goose, sheep, foot.

B Write the singular forms of these nouns.

- brushes, heroes, boxes, potatoes, churches, foxes, inches.
- halves, wolves, leaves, armies, babies, flies, loaves, wives, ladies, thieves, knives, days.
- sheep, feet, mice, men, deer, geese, children, women.

C What do we add for the plural to nouns that end in a 'hissing' sound? Give an example.

D How do some nouns that end in -o make the plural? Give an example.

E If nouns end in -f or -fe, how do they generally make the plural?

F Change the nouns in the following sentences from singular to plural. Notice that plural nouns do not have a or an.

Example: The farmer had a dog.

Answer: The farmers had dogs.

- The boy had a knife.
- The child came into the room.
- The man looked on the shelf.
- The lady gave a key to the girl.
- The cat caught the mouse.
- The leaf fell from the tree.
- The man and woman went to the cinema.
- The child saw a sheep in the field.
- The nurse carried a baby.
- The boss had a new car.
- The soldier got into a bus.
- The donkey ran down the street.
- A bird sang on the branch of a tree.
- The foot of the deer crushed the flower.
- The thief didn't see the policeman.

Lesson Three

G Change the nouns in the following sentences from plural to singular. Notice a or an with a singular noun when the plural does not have the.

Example: Soldiers stood outside the houses.

Answer: A soldier stood outside the house.

- 1 The nurses worked in hospitals.
- 2 The cats caught the mice.
- 3 The boys had knives.
- 4 The countries did not have armies.
- 5 The leaves fell from the trees.

- 6 The children rode on donkeys.
- 7 The men filled the glasses.
- 8 The boys had watches.
- 9 The policemen found the thieves.
- 10 We saw geese and foxes.
- 11 The oxen ate the grass.
- 12 The women told the children stories.
- 13 The thieves stole watches and radios.
- 14 The babies laughed at the children.
- 15 Wolves killed the sheep.

H Look again at the short story on page 9 and put all the singular nouns in one column and all the plural nouns in another column.

Lesson Four

Proper nouns

In Lesson 1 we had the words boy, girl, dog, cat. These words are nouns because they name people or animals. That is quite true; but most people (and some animals) have more than one name. The word boy means young male person – any young male person. Most boys also have their own names.

Let's look at a family. Mr and Mrs Brown (Henry and Susan) have three sons.

Jeremy Brown is a boy. Richard Brown is a boy. Mark Brown is a boy. They are three boys. The English word that names them is boy. It is a common noun. You can use the English common noun boy for any young male person in the world.

The words Jeremy and Richard and Mark are nouns because they name people. But they are not common nouns: you can't use them to name any young male person. They are the special names of Mr and Mrs Brown's sons. In grammar we call these special names proper nouns.

Mr and Mrs Green (John William and Elizabeth) have four daughters.

John William Green — Elizabeth Green

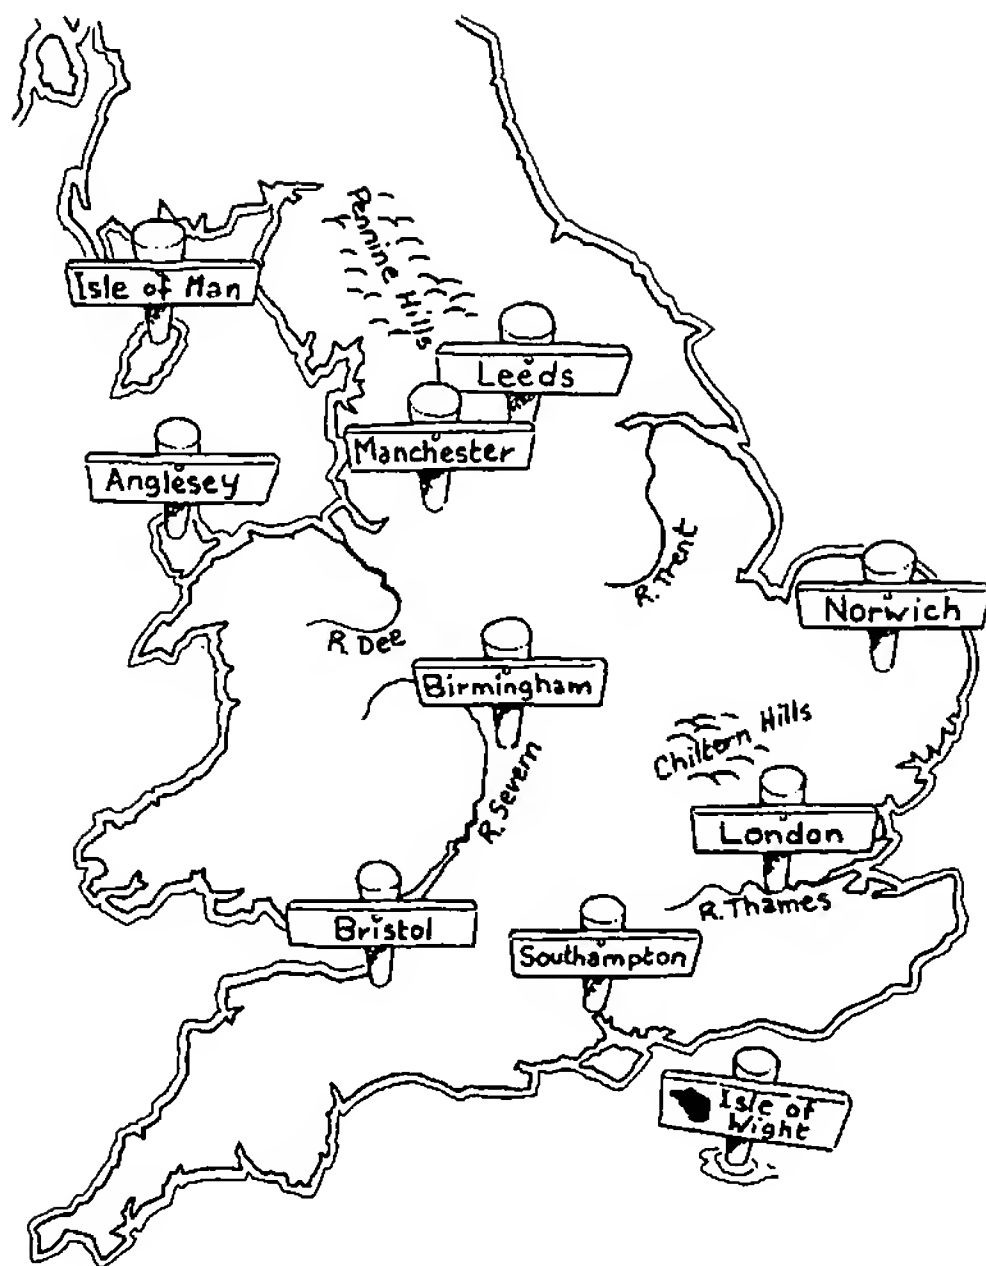

├── Grace Karen Pauline Anne

When we talk about the daughters, the word daughters is a common noun. When we call them girls, the word girls is a (plural) common noun. Their own names are nouns too — proper nouns. We spell these proper nouns with a capital letter: G, K, P, and A — Grace, Karen, Pauline and Anne.

Look at this map of England and Wales. On it there are seven towns (or cities), four rivers, two ranges of hills and three islands. The word town is common to all towns (that is, it can be used of all of them). The word river is common to all rivers, the word island is common to all islands.

Now, here is the same map with the special names of these towns or cities, islands, rivers, etc. These names are proper nouns in grammar.

Nouns that are the names for all people or things or places of the same kind are called common nouns.

Nouns that are the special names of people or places or things are called proper nouns.

All proper nouns begin with a capital letter. The names of days of the week (Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, etc.) and months of the year (January, February, etc.) are all proper nouns, and so should begin with capital letters.

Exercises

A Write down:

- 1 ten common nouns that are the names of things that you can see in your classroom (Example: blackboard).
- 2 ten for things used in games.
- 3 ten for things you can see in the town.
- 4 ten for things you can see in the country.
- 5 ten for things you can see in your home.

B Write down:

- 1 ten proper nouns that are the names of persons.
- 2 ten that are the names of places or things.

C Pick out the proper nouns in the following:

Example: Rome and Venice are cities in Italy.

Answer: Rome, Venice, Italy (not cities — it is a common noun.)

- 1 John came to our house on Friday.
- 2 Mary has a birthday in October.
- 3 The Nile is a big river.
- 4 Margaret has gone to Turkey.
- 5 London is the capital of England.
- 6 The Queen Elizabeth sails from Southampton to New York.

- 7 Kingston is in Jamaica.
- 8 The White House is in Washington.
- 9 The Red Sea is to the east of Egypt.
- 10 Our plane stopped at Bahrain Airport on its way to Singapore.

D Write out the following sentences with capital letters for proper nouns and the beginning of sentences.

- 1 harry lives in london.
- 2 lima is a very fine city.
- 3 my brother's name is george.
- 4 we flew to america on an air india plane.
- 5 the sudan lies to the south of egypt.
- 6 william shakespeare was one of england's greatest poets.
- 7 the nile is a longer river than the thames.
- 8 paris is the capital of france.
- 9 my birthday is on thursday, the 15th of may.
- 10 is delhi in pakistan or in india?

E Here is a short story. It has in it common nouns and proper nouns, but we have printed the proper nouns with a small letter. Draw a table and write the common nouns in one column, and the proper nouns (with capital letters) in another column. We have done the first sentence for you.

Common nouns	Proper nouns
sons	Tuesday, Henry Brown, Jeremy, Richard, Mark, London

A visit to London

Last tuesday henry brown took his sons jeremy, richard and mark to london. They live about fifty miles from london in a small town called greenfields. They went by train. It was an electric train with eight carriages.

'Here's a non-smoking carriage,' mr brown said. 'There are four seats over there.' He opened the carriage door, and they got in.

The train was a fast one. It didn't stop at knightstown, sandfield, pursley or didcombe. But it stopped at starwood new town. Some people got off there, and a porter put some bags of letters and parcels into the van. An old lady got into the carriage. She had a bag with her name and address on it: mrs m. smith, northwood street, croydon, surrey. Ten minutes later they came into waterloo station and very soon they were out in the busy streets.

'Come on, boys, we'll take a bus now.' They found a big red bus marked london bridge. 'That's the bus we want,' said mr brown and the boys hurried up the stairs and on to the top of the bus. As they went along, mr brown pointed out places and things for them to see. 'This is westminster bridge and there are the houses of parliament. We are crossing london's river now, the thames, and just over there is westminster abbey.'

Lesson Four

'What's that monument on the bank of the river?' asked richard.

'That's cleopatra's needle. It came from egypt.'

'And what's that building in the distance with the golden cross on top?'

'That is st paul's cathedral,' said mr brown. 'It was built by the great architect sir christopher wren.'

'I want to see the tower of london,' said jeremy.

'We'll see that after lunch,' said his father.

'Where are we going for lunch?' asked mark. 'I didn't eat much breakfast, I was too excited.'

'We'll have lunch at a place I know in fleet street. Here it is, the cheshire cheese. We must get off the bus here.'

Lesson Five

Nouns: possessive

It is possible to say, 'This is the book of the boy', or 'The dog of Mrs Smith was called Micky', or 'John is wearing the shirt of a man'. But English people don't usually say that. They say:

This is the boy's book.

Mrs Smith's dog was called Micky.

John is wearing a man's shirt.

This form is called the possessive, because it is used to show possession. It shows that something belongs to the person who is named by the noun – that the boy possesses the book, that Mrs Smith possesses the dog, that John's shirt is usually worn by a man.

The possessive form of singular nouns is made by putting an apostrophe s ('s) after the noun that stands for the possessor.

For ~~the cat of Mary~~ we write Mary's cat.

For ~~the house of Jack~~ we write Jack's house.

For ~~the foot of the girl~~ we write the girl's foot.

To make the possessive form of plural nouns there are two easy rules to remember:

1 If the plural ends in s we just add an apostrophe.

~~The house of the boys~~ = the boys' house.

~~The hats of the girls~~ = the girls' hats.

2 If the plural does not end in s we add 's. There are only a few nouns whose plurals don't end in s. For example:

Plural	Possessive
men	men's women	women's
children	children's

Examples: Their children's school is in the next village.

This store sells both men's and women's clothes.

The possessive
Singular nouns	Plural nouns ending in s	Plural nouns not ending in s
These nouns take 's	These nouns take ' only	These nouns take 's
lion dog child brother soldier Mr Brown	uncle bird John sister son babies sons uncles friends cats birds	soldiers girls boys fathers dogs ladies men women children

We use the possessive ('s or s') form of nouns that name people and most animals. It is not generally used for nouns that name things.

So we say: the teacher's lesson; the mother's dress; the dog's foot; the lion's tail. But we say: the colour of the book (not ~~the book's colour~~); the roof of the house (not ~~the house's roof~~).

Exercises

Example: birds

Answer: birds'. Look at all those birds' nests.

Lesson Six

Adjectives

If I say to you,

A man came into the room
the noun man doesn't make a clear picture in your mind.

If I say,

A thin man came into the room
I limit the meaning of the noun man: you don't see in your mind a fat man or even a man of ordinary shape, only a thin man.

The word thin is an adjective. It tells us what kind of man we mean by our noun man.

We use an adjective with a noun to limit the meaning of the noun. The adjective qualifies the noun.

Here are some more examples:

The words man, book, box, egg, rabbit are nouns. The words fat, thin, old, new, heavy, light, good, bad, white, black all tell us something about the meaning of these nouns. They tell us what kind of man, what kind of book, what kind of egg, etc. They are adjectives.

You will notice that in English the adjective usually goes before the noun.

a red flower

a big dog

a long journey

In later lessons you will see some exceptions.

Adjectives of the kind we have looked at in Lesson 6 (the words that tell us 'what kind') are adjectives of quality.

Exercises

A Put suitable adjectives before each of the following nouns.

Example: car

Answer: a red car

- | | | | |
|----------|--------|---------|-------------|
| 1 house | 4 book | 7 lion | 10 headache |
| 2 day | 5 boy | 8 train | 11 flower |
| 3 dinner | 6 tree | 9 river | 12 dog |

B Pick out the adjectives in the following sentences.

Example: Look at that old black car.

Answer: old, black

- They live in a big red house.
- Lloyd is a clever boy.
- This plant has small yellow flowers.
- Mr Chung is a kind man.
- The camel is a very useful animal.
- In New York they have warm weather in summer and cold weather in winter.
- Mary has a new green jumper.
- Lions are strong, fierce animals.
- Cairo is a large, busy city.
- These small apples have a sweet taste.

C Complete these sentences with adjectives from the box. We have filled in number 1 for you.

nasty	cold	new	big	sweet	black favourite	hot	interesting	small

- The man bought a new car.
- The teacher gave us an ____ lesson.
- Henry has broken his ____ knife.
- An elephant is a ____ animal, a mouse is a ____ one.
- Do you like ____ apples?

- In my country we have ____ weather in summer and ____ weather in winter.
- Have you seen a ____ cow? We have lost it.
- Mr Brown is not a ____ man.

D Read this short story. Then make 2 columns with the headings adjectives and nouns. In the first column write down each adjective you find in the story. In the second column write the noun that the adjective goes with. We have printed the adjectives and nouns from the first sentence for you as an example.

Adjectives	Nouns
poor	woodcutter
big	piece
wide	river

The woodcutter and the fairy

A poor woodcutter was cutting a big piece of wood near a wide river. Suddenly his old axe slipped from his hand and fell into the deep water. He was a sad man because he had lost his only axe. But suddenly a lovely, bright fairy appeared.

'What's the matter?' she asked the unhappy woodcutter.

Lesson Six

'I have lost my old axe,' he said. 'It fell into the deep water.'

The fairy showed him a gold axe and said, 'Is this yours?'

'No,' said the woodcutter.

The fairy then showed him a silver axe and said again in her clear voice, 'Is this yours?'

'No,' answered the woodcutter.

Then she showed him a common, iron axe with an old, wooden handle.

'Yes, that's mine,' said the happy woodcutter.

'I know,' said the kind fairy. 'I only wanted a true answer. You are an honest man, so I can give you the gold axe and the silver axe as well as the old iron axe.'

Lesson Seven

Adjectives of quantity

There are several other kinds of adjectives besides adjectives of quality. There are, for example, adjectives that tell you 'how much' or 'how many'.

I have two eyes.

There are twenty books on the desk.

These are called adjectives of quantity.

Here is a little song with some adjectives of quantity in it.

Ten green bottles

There were ten green bottles standing on the wall,
Ten green bottles standing on the wall,
And if one green bottle should accidentally fall,
There'd be nine green bottles standing on the wall.

After this verse you continue:

There were nine green bottles standing on the wall,
Nine green bottles standing on the wall,
And if one green bottle should accidentally fall,
There'd be eight green bottles standing on the wall.

Then, 'There were eight ...' and so on, until you come to:

Lesson Seven

'There was one green bottle ...' and the last line will be 'There'd be no green bottles standing on the wall.' And the word no here is also an adjective of quantity.

Much and many are also adjectives of quantity. They tell us the quantity but not so definitely as the numbers one, two, three etc.

Much is used with singular nouns; many with plural nouns and we almost always use them with not or n't.

I don't have many friends in Cairo.

We didn't have much rain this morning.

There are not many apples on that tree.

I didn't eat much breakfast this morning.

Adjectives of quantity show 'how much' or 'how many'.

Lesson Eight

Demonstrative and interrogative adjectives

There are also adjectives that 'point out' people, things, etc.

'I like this car.'

'I don't like that car.'

This and these are generally used for things that are near. That and those are generally used for things that are further away. This and that go with singular nouns. These and those go with plural nouns.

This car is old. (singular)

That car is old. (singular)

These cars are new. (plural)

Those cars are new. (plural)

This, that, these, those are demonstrative adjectives.

There is one other kind of adjective that we must mention.

Interrogative adjectives are used with nouns to ask questions.

What book are you reading now?

What price are eggs today?

Which boy can answer this question?

Which house do you live in?

Whose house is that?

Whose cat is this?

Lesson Nine

Verbs

Verbs are very important words.

We use verbs to say what people and things do. Verbs express an action.

- The woodcutter sat on the bank. (What did he do?)
She showed him a gold axe. (What did she do?)
'That's mine,' said the woodcutter. (What did he do?)
The girls go to school every day. (What do they do?)
The man opened the box.
The bird sings at my window every morning.
The boys ate all the pudding.

Sometimes we use two words for a verb.

The poor woodcutter was cutting a piece of wood. (What was he doing?)

I have lost my axe. (What has he done?)

I will give you the gold axe and the silver axe. (What will she do?)

Some verbs don't express an action. They just say people or things are something. The chief of these is the verb be (am, is, are, was, were). These verbs often have an adjective after them.

The woodcutter was (verb) very sad (adjective).

The fairy asked the woodcutter why he was (verb) unhappy (adjective).

The fairy said, 'You are (verb) honest (adjective).'

gentleman street	old	was walking

We have filled in the words for the first sentence.

Poor old gentleman!

An old gentleman was walking slowly along a street. He saw a little boy who was trying to reach a door-bell. The door-bell was too high. The kind old man stopped and said, 'I'll ring the bell for you.' He rang the bell, and it made a loud noise in the house.

The little boy looked up at him and said, 'Now we'll run away. Come on!'

And the naughty boy ran round the corner. The old gentleman was still at the door when a big man came and opened it.

'Yes?' said the angry man. 'What do you want?'

Lesson Ten

Sentences and phrases

Sentences

When we want to express our thoughts we use a group of words. A group of words that makes complete sense is a sentence.

1 Tommy has a bicycle. (statement)

2 Where are you going? (question)

3 Open the door. (command)

The first sentence tells us something; it tells us that Tommy has a bicycle. It makes a statement.

The second sentence doesn't tell us anything; it asks something; it asks where someone is going. It is a question. The answer to this question will be a statement.

The third sentence is neither a statement nor a question. It doesn't give us some information (like a statement), and it doesn't ask for information (like a question). It orders someone to do something. It is a command.

So, you see, a sentence can do one of three things.

- 1 Make a statement to tell us something.
- 2 Ask a question.
- 3 Give a command.

Some statements can be turned into questions and some questions can be turned into statements, by changing the order of the words. Here are some examples:

Statement	Question
That is Mary's bicycle.	Is that Mary's bicycle?
John can speak French.	Can John speak French?
You have had your lesson.	Have you had your lesson?
The boy will do the work.	Will the boy do the work?

And here are some examples of commands:

Look at this sentence.
 Be quiet!
 Please come here.
 Come here, please.
 Jane, answer the question.
 Answer the question, Jane.

Phrases

You may have a group of words that makes sense but not complete sense, for example: into the house; at nine o'clock; for eighty pence.

Groups of words like these are phrases. A sentence has a verb in it; a phrase hasn't. You can turn a phrase into a sentence by adding other words to it, but one of the words that you add must be a verb. Let us make the phrases in our example into sentences by adding something (including a verb) to them.

John went into the house.

I left home at nine o'clock.

George bought the book for eighty pence.

Exercises

A Make two columns with the headings sentences and phrases. Then put each group of words below under the right heading. For a sentence you need a capital letter and a full stop (or '?' or '!'). We have done the first two for you.

Sentences	Phrases
1 We saw the boy.	2 at the chemist's

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| 1 we saw the boy | 10 come here |
| 2 at the chemist's | 11 from my father |
| 3 in the garden | 12 sit down |
| 4 open the door | 13 through the window |

| 6 at our school | 15 did you see Margaret |
| 7 an honest man | 16 on Tuesday morning |
| 8 near the school | 17 please don't say that |
| 9 on my desk | |

B Add words to turn these phrases into sentences.

Example: beside the river

Answer: Let's walk beside the river. (Or any other addition that contains a verb)

| 9 near the railway station | 14 with Jeremy and Richard |
| 10 through the window | 15 on the blackboard |
| 11 in his pocket | |

C Here is a little story. Copy the sentences that have brackets [] after them, and in the brackets write S (for statement) or Q (for question) or C (for command). We have filled in the first pair of brackets for you.

The duke and the farmer

The Duke of Wellington was very rich. [S] He had a lot of land in a beautiful part of England. [] Next to the Duke's land there was a farm. [] The Duke wanted to buy the farm and add its fields to his land. []

'Go and see Farmer Jackson,' [] he said to his agent. 'Try to buy his farm for me.' []

After a few weeks, the agent came to the Duke. []

'I've bought the farm for you,' [] he said.

'How much did you pay for it?' [] the Duke asked.

'I got it for £30,000,' [] the agent said. 'The real value of Farmer Jackson's land is £40,000. [] Wasn't it a bargain?' []

'Is the land really worth £40,000?' [] Then tell me this. [] How did you get it for £30,000?' []

'Farmer Jackson is in trouble,' [] the agent answered. 'He needs the money at once. [] He had to sell his farm cheaply.' []

'Go back to Farmer Jackson at once,' [] said the Duke. 'Give him the £10,000. [] If he needs the money, we must give him the real value of his land. [] I don't want a bargain that comes from another man's trouble.' []

D Turn these questions into statements.

Example: Was Jackson the owner of the farm?

Answer: Jackson was the owner of the farm.

- 1 Was Jackson's farm next to the Duke's land?
- 2 Were there fields on Farmer Jackson's land?
- 3 Was the price of the farm £30,000?
- 4 Was the real value of the farm £40,000?
- 5 Was £30,000 a bargain?
- 6 Was Farmer Jackson in trouble?
- 7 Was the Duke sorry for Farmer Jackson?

E Turn the following statements into questions.

Example: The farm is worth £40,000.

Answer: Is the farm worth £40,000?

- 1 The real value of the farm was £40,000.
- 2 Farmer Jackson was in trouble.
- 3 The fields were round the farm.

Lesson Ten

- 4 The farm was next to the Duke's land.
- 5 The Duke will give the farmer £40,000.
- 6 That was a fair price for the farm.
- 7 Farmer Jackson was very glad.

F Make commands using these words. Use them in any order, and add more words if you need them.

Example: Farm, for me, buy.

Answer: Buy the farm for me.

- 1 Door, John, open.
- 2 Mary, book, to me, quickly, bring.
- 3 At home, exercise, do, carefully.
- 4 Tomorrow, homework, here, bring.
- 5 Talking, stop, now, and, work, begin.
- 6 On page 25, all the questions, do.
- 7 Your name, top of paper, write.
- 8 For me, at post office, post, letters.
- 9 Your exercise book, to school, bring, tomorrow.
- 10 Richard, ball, kick, into the goal.

G Write out 3 statements, 3 questions and 3 commands of your own. Don't copy them from this lesson.

Lesson Eleven

The subject of a sentence

Here are seven sentences:

A	B
The Duke of Wellington	wanted to buy the farm.
I	can do these exercises.
The poor woodcutter	lost his axe.
This book	belongs to me.
The boy	laughed.
A little boy in a blue shirt and shorts	ran down the street.
The workman	is unhappy.

You will notice that each sentence is divided into two parts by a line and the parts are marked A and B.

The subject

Part A (The Duke of Wellington, I, The poor woodcutter, This book, The boy, A little boy in a blue shirt and shorts, The workman) contains the person or thing we are talking about in the sentence. We call this the subject of the sentence.

The word or group of words that we speak about in a sentence is called the subject. The subject is the 'doer' of the action.

You want to practise finding the subject of the sentence. Why? Because the subject is the word or group of words that:

- 1 changes place when we make a question:

The girl is clever.
subject

Is the girl clever?
subject

- 2 decides the form of the verb in some cases:

Is the girl clever?
subject

Are the girls clever?
subject

The predicate

Part B (wanted to buy the farm, can do these exercises, lost his axe, belongs to me, laughed, ran down the street, is unhappy) is what we say about the subject. We call that part of the sentence the predicate. The predicate can be one word, or it can be several words.

The predicate of a sentence is the word or group of words that tells us something about the subject.

There is generally a noun or a pronoun (Lesson 13) in the subject (Duke of Wellington, I, woodcutter, book, boy, workman).

There is always a verb in the predicate (wanted, can do, lost, belongs, laughed, ran, is).

There is an easy way to find out the subject of a sentence. First pick out the verb and ask, 'Who?' or 'What?'

Who?/What? → verb = subject

Look at these examples:

This book belongs to me.

What → belongs? = This book (subject)

A little boy ran down the street.

Who → ran? = A little boy (subject)

Exercises

A Pick out the subject of each of the following sentences:

- 1 Birds fly. (Ask: What?)
- 2 Fish swim. (Ask: What?)
- 3 The pupil reads a book. (Ask: Who?)
- 4 The cat caught a mouse. (Ask: What?)
- 5 Henry opened the door. (Ask: Who?)
- 6 Margaret Lee goes to school.
- 7 A man went into the chemist's shop.
- 8 The chemist opened the bottle.
- 9 The medicine has cured your headache.
- 10 A poor woodcutter was cutting wood.
- 11 His axe fell into the water.
- 12 The fairy showed him a silver axe.
- 13 I can give you the gold axe and the silver axe.
- 14 An old gentleman was walking along the street.
- 15 The naughty boy ran round the corner.
- 16 The man was very angry.
- 17 The real value of Farmer Jackson's land is £40,000.
- 18 The girl is going to the shops.
- 19 The moon gives less light than the sun.
- 20 The Duke's agent took £10,000 and gave it to Farmer Jackson.

Lesson Eleven

B Add predicates to these subjects.

- 1 The fairy
- 2 The woodcutter
- 3 He
- 4 My friend in London
- 5 The horses
- 6 The driver of the train
- 7 The chemist
- 8 Flowers
- 9 A big red-faced man
- 10 The blackboard

C Give subjects to these predicates.

- 1 is in the garden.
- 2 has lost his knife.
- 3 sing.
- 4 opened the door.
- 5 wanted to buy a farm.
- 6 went into the shop.
- 7 sat at the back of the class.
- 8 is making the flowers grow.
- 9 will feed the hens.
- 10 went slowly out of the station.
- 11 answered all the questions.
- 12 sells butter, sugar and tea.
- 13 visits Trinidad three times a year.
- 14 laid an egg
- 15 have lost all their leaves.

Lesson Twelve

The object of a verb

If I said to you,
'The dog killed.'
He killed yesterday,' or 'This shopkeeper sells', you would be puzzled. You would say, 'Go on. Finish the sentence. Tell us what the shopkeeper sells. Tell us what the dog killed. Those verbs sell and kill don't make sense by themselves. You must put something after them to make sense.'

So I say,
'This shopkeeper
sells bicycles.'

'The dog killed a rat.
He killed it yesterday.'

'Oh yes,' you say at once, 'that makes sense.'

The word bicycles is the object of the verb sell.
The words a rat and it are the objects of the verb kill.

The object of a verb is a noun or pronoun which tells us the person or thing that the action of the verb happened to. The object is the 'receiver' of the action.

We found the subject of the sentence by saying the question word who? (or what?) before the verb (Lesson 11). We can find the object by saying the question word what? (or who(m)?) after the verb.

Who?/What? → verb = subject
verb → what? = object

To find the subject and object of this sentence:

The shopkeeper sells bicycles.

Who → sells? = The shopkeeper (subject)
sells → what? = bicycles (object)

Here are some more examples:

The rat bit the dog.

What → bit? = The rat (subject) bit → what? = the dog (object)

The dog killed the rat.

What → killed? = The dog (subject) killed → what? = the rat (object)

Transitive Verbs

Verbs that have an object (some verbs don't) are transitive verbs. 'Transitive' comes from a Latin word that means 'going over'. The action of killing 'goes over' from the dog to the rat. The action of selling 'goes over' from the shopkeeper to the bicycles.

In the sentence The rat bit the dog, the action of biting goes from the rat to the dog. The rat is the 'doer' of the action; the dog is the 'receiver' of the action. In the sentence The dog killed the rat, the action of killing goes from the dog to the rat. The dog is the 'doer' of the action; the rat is the 'receiver' of the action. Both sentences have objects: the verbs bite and kill are transitive verbs.

Verbs that take objects are called transitive verbs.

Intransitive Verbs

But there are some verbs that don't have objects, because sometimes the action doesn't 'go over' from one person or thing to another person or thing. Consider these sentences for example:

The dog growled.

The rat died.

The action of growling starts and ends with the dog. It doesn't 'go over' to anything else. The action of dying begins and ends with the rat.

If you say, growled what?, died what?, you can't get a sensible answer. These verbs don't have an object. They are intransitive verbs.

Verbs that don't take objects are called intransitive verbs.

Exercises

Who?/What? → verb = subject
verb → what? = object

- 18 The children are sitting still at their desks.
- 19 Please give me those flowers.
- 20 I will go to Hong Kong next week.

D Read this short story.

The joke

Sir William Thompson was very deaf, but he always pretended that he could hear everything. One evening he invited several friends to dinner. While they were sitting at the table, one of the friends told a funny story. Everyone laughed. William laughed very loudly too. Then he said, 'That was a very funny joke, but I know a funnier one. Would you like to hear it?' They all said they would, so William began his story. When it ended, everyone laughed louder than before. William smiled happily. But he didn't know the reason for their laughter. He had told the same story.

Ten of the verbs in that story are printed in italics. Draw four columns like this in your exercise book.

1. Subject	2. Verb	3. Object	4. Kind of Verb
he	invited	several friends	T

Write in column 2 each of the verbs in italics. Write the subject of each verb in column 1. Write the object (if there is one) in column 3. And in column 4 put T if the verb is transitive, or I if it is intransitive. We have filled in the columns for the first verb for you.

The complement

'That man is' isn't a complete sentence. It needs something to make it complete. Perhaps: 'That man is a detective.' We say that detective is not an object of is. The man doesn't do anything to the detective. He is the detective: man = detective. We give a special name to words or phrases which complete a sentence after verbs like be, seem, become. They are complements.

E Complete these sentences by adding a complement.

Example: The teacher's mother seems ____.

Answer: The teacher's mother seems old.

- 1 Anne Carter is ____.
- 2 She was ____, but now she is ____.
- 3 Today is ____, and tomorrow will be ____.
- 4 That old lady feeds the birds. She seems ____.
- 5 Mary was ____, but she has become ____.
- 6 Is your brother ____, or is he ____?

Lesson Thirteen

Pronouns

Look at this story:

John Brown said that John Brown was hungry. Mary Brown said that Mary Brown was hungry, too. When their mother heard that John and Mary were hungry, their mother gave John and Mary a piece of cake each. John and Mary thanked their mother for the piece of cake and John and Mary ate the piece of cake. Then John said, 'John thanks his mother. John isn't hungry now,' and Mary said, 'Mary thanks her mother. Mary isn't hungry now.' Their mother said, 'Did John and Mary enjoy the cake?' and John and Mary said together, 'John and Mary enjoyed the cake very much.'

It sounds funny, doesn't it? I'm sure you can see why. It's because we keep repeating the nouns John and Mary and mother and piece of cake. Now let's try again, and this time, instead of always using these nouns, we will use other words that stand for them. We'll mark all the words that we use instead of the nouns.

John Brown said that he was hungry. Mary Brown said that she was hungry, too. When their mother heard that they were hungry, she gave them a piece of cake each. They thanked her for it and they ate it. Then John said, 'I Thank you. I'm not hungry now,' and Mary said, 'I Thank you. I'm not hungry now.' Their mother said, 'Did you enjoy it?' And they said together, 'We enjoyed it very much.'

That sounds better, doesn't it? We have used pronouns, words that we use instead of the nouns. The pronouns in that story are the words I, you, he, she, we, they, them, her, him, it.

Words that stand instead of nouns are called pronouns.

Exercise

Pick out the pronouns in the following.

- 1 John is a boy. He is at home.
- 2 Mary is a girl. She is in the class.
- 3 They are brother and sister.
- 4 We know them very well.
- 5 They stayed with us last year.
- 6 John is a clever boy. I like him.
- 7 Mary is our friend. She is twelve years old. We like her.
- 8 They have a bicycle. It is yellow.
- 9 They have asked me to visit them next year.
- 10 They live in Kingston. It is a big city.
- 11 Do you like these flowers? They are out of the garden.
- 12 I read that book. It is very interesting.
- 13 Show me how to do this exercise.
- 14 Don't you know how to do it?
- 15 I don't understand how to do it.

Gender of nouns and pronouns

In the story about John and Mary, when we used pronouns instead of nouns, we sometimes used he, him and at other times she, her. Of course you know when to use he, him and when to use she, her. The pronouns he and him are used when they stand for nouns like man or boy; that is, for males. The pronouns she, her are used when they stand for nouns like woman or girl; that is, for females.

In grammar we say that the forms he and she (or him and her) show a difference of gender.

Words that stand for males are masculine gender. So the nouns man, boy, son, king, prince, etc., and the pronouns he and him are masculine gender.

Words that stand for females are feminine gender. The nouns woman, girl, daughter, queen, princess, etc., and the pronouns she and her are feminine gender.

Words that stand for things are neutral gender. (Neutral means neither masculine nor feminine.) So the nouns book, house, river, tree, city, etc., and the pronoun it are neutral gender.

Sometimes the pronouns used for animals are neutral gender.

Where is the cat? It is on the mat.

Where is the dog? It is in the garden.

The pronouns I, me, you, we, us can be either masculine or feminine. The pronouns they and them may be masculine or feminine or neutral.

The boys have just come home. Ask them if they want their dinner. (masculine)

The girls have been to the cinema. Ask them if they enjoyed the picture. (feminine)

The apple-trees are covered with blossom. They will have plenty of apples on them in the autumn. (neutral)

Exercises

A Answer these questions.

- 1 What is the gender of nouns or pronouns that stand for male persons?
- 2 What is the gender of nouns or pronouns that stand for female persons?
- 3 What is the gender of nouns or pronouns that stand for things or animals?

B

- 1 Write down four nouns in the masculine gender and four in the feminine gender.
- 2 Write down two pronouns in the feminine gender and two in the masculine gender.
- 3 Write down ten nouns or pronouns in the neutral gender.
- 4 Which two pronouns can be masculine, feminine and neutral?
- 5 Which pronoun is only neutral gender?

Lesson Fourteen

C Give the feminine of the following nouns and pronouns.

Example: grandfather (masculine)

Answer: grandmother (feminine)

1 he	6 husband	11 policeman	16 nephew
2 him	7 father	12 actor	17 uncle
3 boy	8 son	13 lion	18 duke
4 king	9 brother	14 gentleman	19 hero
5 prince	10 man	15 Mr	20 tiger

2 she	7 girl	12 lady	17 princess
3 queen	8 sister	13 niece	18 mother
4 wife	9 heroine	14 duchess	19 tigress
5 daughter	10 policewoman	15 aunt	20 Mrs

Lesson Fifteen

Pronouns: singular and plural, persons

You have just seen how useful the pronouns are. The pronouns you have looked at in Lessons 13 and 14 are used instead of nouns that mean persons or animals or things. We call them personal pronouns.

Singular and plural

The pronouns I, me, he, she, him, her are used for only one person. So they are singular.

The pronouns we, us, they, them are used for more than one person. They are plural.

You is both singular and plural.

You are a good boy (one boy, singular).

You are good boys (more than one boy, plural).

We call it a personal pronoun too, but we use it to mean an animal or a thing. The plural of it is they or them.

Persons

You have met the word persons, of course, meaning people. But in grammar, person (first person, second person, third person) has another meaning.

The 1st person is the person speaking.

The 2nd person is the person spoken to.

The 3rd person is the person spoken about.

Richard is looking through the window. The teacher is pointing at him. They are pupils; she teaches them. Richard's mother thinks he is in the classroom – but she is wrong.

Impersonal subject

There is also another use for it, as the impersonal subject in such sentences as,

It is raining.

It was a fine day yesterday.

It's a long way from here to London.

Exercises

A Pick out the pronouns in these sentences. Write singular or plural after each of them.

Example: They are big horses.

Answer: They – plural.

- 1 He is playing football.
- 2 She is watching him.
- 3 They don't see the teacher.
- 4 He sees them.
- 5 You are all working hard.
- 6 You are the boy I saw playing football..
- 7 We have a lesson every day.
- 8 Tell us what you told her.
- 9 It is hot today.
- 10 If you don't understand this lesson, ask me about it.

B What do we mean by (a) the 1st person, (b) the 2nd person, (c) the 3rd person?

C Pick out the pronouns in these sentences. Say what person each one is.

Example: I love her.

Answer: I – 1st person; her – 3rd person.

- 1 You must do the work.
- 2 He is not working very hard.
- 3 We come to the class every day, and the teacher teaches us.
- 4 They can do it, if they try.

Lesson Fifteen

- 5 I asked him to come and see me.
- 6 She asked me to bring the book to her.
- 7 You can sit next to them.
- 8 She doesn't like me and I don't like her.
- 9 We don't like them and they don't like us.
- 10 You don't like him and he doesn't like you.

Lesson Sixteen

Pronouns: subject and object

In Lessons 11 and 12 we talked about subjects and objects:

Subject	Verb	Object
The boy	kicked	the football
The cat	caught	a mouse

In English (but not in all languages), nouns always have the same form whether they are the subject or the object.

Subject	Verb	Object
The boy	hit	the dog
The dog	bit	the boy

As you see, the nouns boy and dog can be subjective or objective without any change of form. As subject or as object they are b-o-y and d-o-g. But pronouns are different. With most of them there is one form for the subject and another form for the object. I is subjective; me is objective. He is subjective; him is objective, and so on. For example:

Subject	Verb	Object
I	know	the boy
The boy	knows	me
He	knows	the teacher
The teacher	knows	him
She	knows	the teacher
The teacher	knows	her
We	know	the teacher
The teacher	knows	us
They	know	the teacher
The teacher	knows	them

You and it are the same whether they are the subject or the object.

Subject	Verb	Object
You	hit	it
It	bit	you

This table will help you to remember what you have learned about pronouns.

			Personal Pronouns
			Subjective	Objective
1st Person	Singular Plural		I we	me us
2nd Person	Singular Plural		you
3rd person	Singular	Masculine	he	him
		Feminine	she	her
		Neutral	it
	Plural	they		them

Exercises

A Pick out the pronouns in these sentences. Write subject or object after each.

Example: They took us in their car.

Answer: They – subject; us – object

- I taught him at school.
- He helped us with this exercise.
- She will see them tomorrow.
- You broke that window; I saw you.
- It will cost a lot of money to mend it.
- I asked her to come and see me.
- We couldn't do the exercise until the teacher told us how to do it.
- They played us at football, and we beat them.
- He scored a goal, and we all cheered him.
- She did the exercise well. When I had marked it, I praised her.

B Divide these sentences into subject, verb, object like this:

Subject	Verb	Object
I	taught	you

and then underline each pronoun on your paper. We have answered the first one in the example.

- | | |
|---------------------|----------------------|
| 1 I taught you. | 6 He thanked them. |
| 2 He saw me. | 7 She hit the ball. |
| 3 She knows us. | 8 He threw it. |
| 4 We know her. | 9 It broke a window. |
| 5 They praised him. | 10 They blamed him. |

C Change the pronouns in these sentences from singular to plural. In some cases you will have to change the verb too.

Example: He likes me.

Answer: They like us.

- 1 I come to school every day.
- 2 He is hungry.
- 3 She can sing very well.
- 4 The teacher gives me an English lesson.
- 5 The teacher asked him a question.
- 6 I asked her to sing 'Ten Green Bottles'.
- 7 He told me a story.
- 8 You are working hard.
- 9 I am English; what is he?
- 10 He doesn't see me.

D Write out these sentences, but with pronouns instead of the words printed in italics. You will need to change the verb too in 17, 18, 19 and 20

- 1 John is a boy.
- 2 Margaret is a girl.
- 3 John and Margaret met the teacher.
- 4 Mrs Smith, the teacher, gave John a lesson.
- 5 Margaret is a nice girl. My wife and I like Margaret.
- 6 Here is my bicycle. My bicycle is black.
- 7 Mr Jones, the teacher, said, 'Give the teacher your book.'
- 8 The teacher said to John and Margaret, 'Have John and Margaret done this exercise?'
- 9 The lesson is easy. Mrs Smith, the teacher, explained the lesson.
- 10 Mr Jones, the teacher, spoke to John and Margaret. The teacher asked John and Margaret to come and see the teacher.
- 11 Tom saw Mary. Tom spoke to Mary.
- 12 Mary saw Tom. Mary spoke to Tom.

- 13 Tom and Mary saw Mrs Robinson. Tom and Mary spoke to Mrs Robinson.
- 14 Mrs Robinson saw Tom and Mary. Mrs Robinson spoke to Tom and Mary.
- 15 Mr Sangster met Carl and Linda. Mr Sangster shook hands with Carl and Linda.
- 16 Linda and Carl met Mr Sangster. Linda and Carl shook hands with Mr Sangster.
- 17 Linda and Carl said to Mr Sangster, 'Is Mr Sangster pleased to see Linda and Carl?'
- 18 'My name is Henry. What is your name?'
'My name is George, and George is very pleased to meet Henry.'
- 19 My name is Grace. What is your name?'
'My name is Margaret, and Margaret is very pleased to meet Grace.'
- 20 'My name is Linda. What are your names?' 'Our names are Jane and Elizabeth, and Jane and Elizabeth are very pleased to meet Linda. Is Linda pleased to meet Jane and Elizabeth?'

E Here is another story. Write it out again, but use pronouns instead of nouns where pronouns are better.

Isaac Newton's egg

Three hundred years ago, Isaac Newton was a great man of science. No man was a greater thinker, but Newton was very absent-minded about small matters when Newton was thinking about a problem. One morning Newton got up very early because Newton was working on a very difficult problem. Newton was thinking about the problem so deeply that Newton would not leave the problem to go to breakfast. But Mary, his housekeeper, thought Newton needed food, so the housekeeper took a pan of water and an egg to his study. The housekeeper wanted to boil the egg and stay with Newton until Newton ate the egg.

Lesson Sixteen

But Newton wanted to be alone, and Newton said, 'Mary can leave the egg with Newton, and Newton will boil the egg.' The housekeeper put the egg on the table beside Newton's watch, and the housekeeper said, 'Isaac must boil the egg for four minutes and then the egg will be ready.'

Then the housekeeper left the room. But the housekeeper was afraid that Newton might forget to boil the egg. So the housekeeper returned about an hour later. The housekeeper found Newton standing by the fireplace. Newton had put the watch in the saucepan, and Newton was boiling the watch. Newton was holding the egg in his hand. But Newton was still thinking about his problem.

Lesson Seventeen

Adverbs

We saw in Lesson 6 that adjectives are used with nouns. Other words go with verbs. The words that we use with verbs are called adverbs.

Some adverbs tell how an action is done. For example:

The old gentleman walked (verb) slowly (adverb) along the street.

The little boy ran (verb) quickly (adverb).

The woodcutter sat (verb) sadly (adverb) by the side of the river.

These adverbs are called adverbs of manner.

Adverbs are often formed by adding -ly to an adjective.

The boy is a quick (adjective) runner.

The boy runs quickly (adverb).

The old gentleman was a slow (adjective) walker.

The old gentleman walked slowly (adverb).

The little boy's behaviour was bad (adjective).

The little boy behaved badly (adverb).

Note that when the adjective ends in -y, the adverb changes the -y to -i

The bird sang a merry (adjective) song.

The bird sang merrily (adverb).

But there are some adverbs that are not formed like this.

Here are some examples:

John is a hard (adjective) worker.

John works hard (adverb).

This is a fast (adjective) train.

It goes very fast (adverb).

The little girl's behaviour was good (adjective).

The little girl behaved well (adverb).

Adverbs usually follow the verb they go with; adjectives usually come before the noun they go with.

A few adverbs tell us when (not how) an action was done.

The woodcutter lost his axe yesterday. (When did he lose it?)

We must come to school tomorrow. (When must we come to school?)

These adverbs are called adverbs of time.

A few adverbs tell us where an action happened.

I sat down there. (Where did I sit down?)

These adverbs are called adverbs of place.

We use an adverb with a verb to tell how, when or where an action happens. We say the adverb modifies the verb.

Exercises

A Find the adverbs in these sentences.

Example: You'll do this exercise carefully, won't you?

Answer: carefully

- 1 The birds sang sweetly.
- 2 The man spoke slowly.
- 3 The children played happily.
- 4 The boy wrote his exercise badly.
- 5 The woodcutter looked sadly at the river.
- 6 When he saw his axe, he smiled happily.
- 7 Every soldier fought bravely.
- 8 You must work hard if you want to do this exercise correctly. (2 adverbs)
- 9 Richard ate his breakfast fast and then ran quickly to school. (2 adverbs)
- 10 The school team played well and won their game easily. (2 adverbs)
- 11 Come here.
- 12 Why did you go there?
- 13 I did the work yesterday.
- 14 You didn't do it well; you must do it carefully now. (3 adverbs)
- 15 The girl shouted suddenly, 'The car is here!' (2 adverbs)
- 16 The teacher spoke clearly, and we understood her easily. (2 adverbs)
- 17 George worked hard and did the exercise well today. (3 adverbs)
- 18 The child opened the door of the cage and the bird flew out.
- 19 He didn't know the bird would fly away.
- 20 You came here late today; you must come early tomorrow. (5 adverbs)

B Use adverbs from the list in the box to fill the blank spaces. Say whether your adverb shows the manner, or time, or place of the action. We have completed number 1 for you.

well quickly carefully brightly tomorrow tonight hard loudly here fast today slowly carelessly

- 1 The boy wrote quickly (manner).
- 2 You are working too ____.
- 3 I will do the work ____.
- 4 Open the door ____.
- 5 Come ____ I want to speak to you.
- 6 I saw Jane ____ and I shall see her again ____.
- 7 Carmen drove the car ____ along the wide road but ____ in the crowded streets.
- 8 It was a beautiful day, the sun was shining ____, the birds were singing ____ and the children were playing in the field.
- 9 Mary is a good singer; I didn't know she sang so ____.
- 10 Learning English is hard work, but I want to learn it and so I will work ____.

C Read this story.

Fire! fire!

Mr King was writing busily in his big room. His son Ian rushed excitedly into the room and shouted loudly, 'Fire, fire! The kitchen is on fire!'

Mr King got up quickly, and he and Ian ran as fast as they could to the kitchen.

'Look there,' shouted Ian, and he pointed to the flames. He had carelessly left a towel near the stove and it was burning fiercely.

Mr King saw a big pan of boiling water on the top of the stove. 'You silly boy,' he said. 'Why didn't you throw that on the burning towel? That would have put it out quickly.'

'Oh no,' said the boy, slowly. 'That water would be useless; it's hot water.'

Draw four columns like this:

1 Nouns	2 Verbs	3 Adjectives	4 Adverbs
Mr King room	was writing	big (his)	busily (M)

Into the first column put all the nouns in the story. Put all the verbs into the second column. Into the third one put all the adjectives. And put all the adverbs into the fourth one. If the adverb tells how the action was done, put 'M' (for manner) after it. If it tells when, put 'T' (for time). If it tells where, put 'P' (for place). We have done the first sentence for you.

Lesson Eighteen

Prepositions. Adverb phrases. Adjective phrases

Let's open the next box and see what comes out. Here they come: to, with, on, in. They include some of the shortest words in the language, but sometimes they are the most difficult to use.

You will generally hear or see them used with a noun or pronoun to make a phrase (a group of words without a verb). For example: at my house; in your school; with you. Here are some more examples:

Preposition		Noun or pronoun
in	your	pocket
over	the	wall
through	the	window
to		him
round	the	house
into	the	garden
towards	the	door

These phrases often do the work of an adverb: they tell how, when or where an action was done. We call them adverb phrases.

The soldiers fought bravely (adverb of manner).

The soldiers fought with great bravery (adverb phrase).

He came yesterday (adverb of time).

He came at four o'clock (adverb phrase).

She sat there (adverb of place).

She sat in the corner (adverb phrase).

At other times they do the work of an adjective: they limit the meaning of a noun. These phrases are called adjective phrases. Here are some examples:

A dirty (adjective) boy opened the door.

A boy with a dirty face (adjective phrase) opened the door.

I like a corner (adjective) seat in the train.

I like a seat in the corner (adjective phrase).

Here are some more examples of adjective phrases:

The children of the village go to this school.

The picture on the wall shows Westminster Abbey.

The view through the open window is very pretty.

The boy with me is Richard.

Sometimes the same group of words may be an adverb phrase or an adjective phrase. It all depends on the work it is doing. Look at these phrases:

The view through the open window is very pretty.
This is an adjective phrase because it qualifies, or limits the meaning of, the noun view.

The bird flew through the open window.
An adverb phrase because it modifies, or limits the meaning of, the verb flew. It tells where it flew.

The class in this room is learning English.
An adjective phrase. It qualifies the noun class.

We learn English in this room.
An adverb phrase. It modifies the verb learn.

The bell at eleven o'clock tells us that the lesson is finished.
Adjective phrase. It qualifies the noun bell.

They ring the bell at eleven o'clock to tell us that the lesson is finished.
Adverb phrase. It modifies the verb ring.

There is just one more thing to notice. After a preposition, the pronoun in the phrase is always the object pronoun.

He came with them.

He will sit between you and me.

This letter was written by him.

He bought the house from us.

We say that the preposition governs the noun or pronoun it goes with.

Exercises

A Here is another short story. The prepositions in it are printed in italics. Say which noun or pronoun each governs. We have done the first sentence of the story as an example.

Preposition	Noun or pronoun
in	London
in	poverty

A life for a life

Richard Savage was once living in London in great poverty. To earn a little money he had written the story of his life, but not many copies of the book had been sold in the shops. Savage was still very poor. Because he couldn't buy enough food, he became very ill. But after a time, owing to the skill of the doctor, he got well again. After a week or two the doctor sent a bill to Savage for his visits, but poor Savage hadn't any money and couldn't pay it. The doctor waited for another month and sent the bill again. But still no money came. After several weeks he sent it to him again, asking for his money. In the end he came to Savage's house and asked him for payment. He said to Savage, 'You know you owe your life to me and I expected some gratitude from you.'

'I agree,' said Savage, 'that I owe my life to you. To prove to you that I am not ungrateful for your work I will give my life to you.' With these words he handed to him two volumes with the words 'The Life of Richard Savage' on the cover.

Conjunctions

There are now only two more boxes, conjunctions and interjections.

Conjunctions are words that join together words, phrases or sentences. They are like the links that join railway wagons together. Here are some examples.

and joins two words

and joins two phrases

but joins two sentences

The woodcutter looked at the gold axe, but he refused to take it.

Will you have the gold axe, or will you have the silver axe?

Here is a long 'train' joined by conjunctions. It isn't a very good sentence because it has too many conjunctions in it, but it will show you what conjunctions can do.

Interjections

There are not many words in this box. They are words (or sometimes phrases, or just noises) that we use to express a sudden feeling, for example, surprise, pleasure, pain, etc.

Here are some: Hello! Hurrah! Oh! Ah! Good heavens! How pretty! Ouch! Ugh! Wow!

Note that they usually have an exclamation mark (!) after them.
